Connecting the Pharmaceutical Industry Through the Internet of Supply Chains

Imagine—a single network integration that enables any network member to link systems, people, and processes with any other network member across the entire industry. That's the promise of the Internet of Supply Chains (IoSC).

Fortunately, the IoSC isn't just a vision—it's already here. Watch this video to see how one supply chain leader is using TraceLink to capitalize on the IoSC and tap into the collective intelligence of their supply chains.
